

BARESI TRAINING CENTER

We offer services that cover regional, context-specific and locally-based training. These training services aim to drive the qualifications, especially for early career researchers and young professionals in sustainable development and resilience fields. This training center works towards achieving this through various training both for internal and external purposes in collaboration with governments, development partners, NGOs, and professional associations.

Please do get in touch with us if you want to customise the training to your organisation or community needs!

TRAINING PROGRAMS

Life Cycle Assessment and Circular Economy

The surge in waste generation and heightened energy demand poses critical challenges to environmental sustainability. By aligning Circular Economy principles with LCA insights, government agencies can make informed decisions, fostering sustainability and addressing the intricate nexus between urbanisation, waste management, and energy demands.
